Walter Cudnohufsky has been an enthusiastic resident of New England for over thirty years. He creates works of art faithful to the realist tradition in watercolor and pencil. His art shows the influence of Andrew Wyeth, Winslow Homer, Eric Sloan and the painters of the Hudson River School. Walter's art captures the powerful, mutable New England landscape with an emphasis on the expressive quality of trees. His mature experience as a landscape architect has nurtured Walter's keen sensibility to landscape composition and nuance. This enables him to create evocative and compelling artistic compositions.

Education

Walter Cudnohufsky has studied art and drawing both as an undergraduate in landscape architecture at Michigan State University and at the Harvard Graduate School of Design where he received his Master's degree.

His many years of independent painting have been complemented by workshops with artists including Nicholas Phakos (MA), Jack Flynn (VA), Zoltan Zabo (NC), Brian Carr (NH), Tom Lynch (VA), and Roland Roycraft (MI).
